What you will learn

Serving: Learn how to serve with maximum impact. You will be shown 5 different ways to serve that will keep your opponent's off balance. Effective serving is about body positioning, weight distribution and timing. You will learn each of these styles to serve with more precision and direction. If Pickleball is like chess, the serve is your first move. You will learn how to make this first move count.

Return of serve: Possibly one of the most wasted shots in Pickleball. This is your second move in the chess game of Pickleball. Don't waste it. Too many players are standing in the wrong place, returning incorrectly and aiming in the wrong direction. Learn where to stand that focuses on your strength. Where and how to attack your opponent's weakness as well as the most effective strategy to get you to the non-volley zone before your opponent can return the ball.

Power Strategies: Too many players use power to their disadvantage. You already won the point. Why lose it with too much power. There is a time to hit hard and a time to hit soft. You will learn these simple techniques that will keep the ball in place and allow you to set yourself up for winner shots.

Lobs: Learn why you should only lob one way and how. Offensive lobs are what win games. Most defensive lobs just postpone the inevitable. You will learn how to avoid this trap. Learn when you should lob, how you should lob and where you should lob.

Maximum of 25 players will be allowed during each boot camp. Register early

When to dink, how to dink, where to dink. The team that controls the net controls the game. Learn how to control the net with effective dinking strategies. Where to hit the ball and why. You will learn specific placement techniques and power strategies. How to separate your opponents at the net and set yourself up for either an overhead smash or a drive between the two players

Volley: How to attack, where to attack and how to defend. How to survive at the non-volley zone when the ball is streaming at you. You will learn volley techniques to keep your opponent's back at the baseline. You will learn where to attack with a volley and different techniques to use when hitting a volley shot.

Bangers: How to defend against bangers and beat them, using angles to your advantage setting up the point for a winner. Learn how to create an effective drop shot against the hardest bangers. Learn a technique that allows the ball to go out of court allowing you to win the point. You will never be afraid of bangers after learning these effective strategies.

The Jam: One of the most missed opportunities in the game of pickleball. This technique will either force your opponent to pop the ball high where you can smash it away for a point, force your opponent to hit the ball into the net or out of bounds, or force them to move away allowing the ball to bounce in the court and lose the point.

No-Man's land: You must learn to survive in no man's land. You will learn the most effective ways to hit in no man's land including resetting the point.

Half Court Singles: Learn a proven method of playing on ½ the court that will dramatically improve your pickleball doubles game. The skills you learn will be put to the test with half court singles. It is here where you will learn to tone your skills. Effective serving, return of serve, dinking, jamming, lobbing, and dinking are some of the skills that you will be tested on.

Tournament play: We will conclude the training with real doubles tournament play. Each team playing against one another in a round robin format.

Recently winner of two gold medals and a bronze medal at the Santa Barbara sanctioned tournament. Brett has been the past pickleball instructor for Paso Robles Pickleball and currently is lead Pickleball coach for Arroyo Grande pickleball.
